"There's a legend for children who are sad and who cry
About a little boy ghost, dressed in black, who can fly
About a big, metal giant who stands sky high
They'll always help you and they'll never lie!"

New York City. 1899.

Abigail Reid just wants to go to school. A poor farm girl who only recently moved to New York from the country, she quickly learns that the city can be a very dangerous place.

Her mother recently passed away from fever. Her father works three jobs to support them. The Longshadows, the ruthless gangsters that control her neighborhood, have her surrounded, but just when Abigail thinks she is all alone, she meets the legendary Little Wade and Watchtower!
With their help, Abigail will discover that she is far braver and more capable than she ever imagined.

Together, they plan to set The Great Gang Trap and rid her neighborhood of the Longshadows once and for all.

Unfortunately, the Longshadows are not the only threat in New York...
